

June 1, 2009

To Whom It May Concern:

This letter is my personal recommendation for Crystal Campos. During her time as a student at Taylor University, I had been Crystal's immediate supervisor as she worked on the Student Calling Team as part of the Advancement office. As a member of this team, Crystal was responsible for contacting alumni, parents, and friends in order to reconnect with them as well as soliciting gifts for the Taylor Annual Fund.

From my time working with Crystal, I found her to be an outgoing and hard-working individual. She was always on-time and very willing to "go the extra mile" by putting in extra time. She loved talking with alumni and hearing about their experiences while they were at Taylor. I could tell she really cared about what they were saying and was willing to invest in the relationship through the phone. Even through short phone calls with alumni, Crystal had a great way of connecting with people and made them felt listened to.

Along with reconnecting alumni to the institution, Crystal was also responsible for soliciting gifts for the Taylor Fund – the annual fund that helped subsidize the cost of tuition and support student programs. Crystal was able to confidently and boldly accomplish this difficult task while being tactful in her approach.

Crystal stepped forward as a great leader assisting in several areas of the program. She assisted in training new callers at the beginning of each semester and continued to pour into them throughout the semester. She was always willing to be flexible when it came to switching her days and times of work.

I was pleased to have Crystal as part of the Student Calling Team during the three and half years she has attended Taylor University and am completely confident she has the character and commitment to thrive in any job for which she is applying.

If you would like to speak to me in greater detail, I can be reached at 765-998-4886 or mtgin@taylor.edu.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Matt Gin". The signature is fluid and cursive, with a prominent loop at the end.

Matt Gin
Director of the Taylor Fund